South Africa	Mar 88	Increased duties	World	Certain footwear	Emergency action under GATT Art. XIX. Temporary extension of suspension of GATT bindings.
	Aug 88	Import surcharges	World	Generic	Extension and modification of the rate of import surcharge introduced in 1985.
United States	Dec 86	Customs user fee	World	Generic	The "merchandise processing fee", enacted in the Omnibus Budget and Reconciliation Act, imposes an ad-valorem charge for the processing of commercial marchandise entering the United States. The "Customs and Trade Act of 1990" modified the structure of the fee as from 1 Oct. 1990.in order to bring it in conformity with GATT.
	Jan 87	Tax on imported petroleum	World	Petroleum and petroleum products	Increased tax on petroleum with a differential between 8.2 cents per barrel for domestic oil and 11.7 cents per barrel on imported petroleum products, provided in the "Superfund Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 1986". In Dec. 1989 the United States indicated that an amendment to the "Superfund" tax legislation was approved by the Congress to equalize the current tax between domestic and imported products.
	Jan 87	VERs Import monitoring	Japan and Taiwan, Prov. of China Federal Republic of Germany and Switzerland	Machine tools	VRAs for a five-year period under Section 232 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 (National Security). A surge of exports to the United States may trigger unilateral action under Section 232.
	Jan 87	Textiles agreement	El Salvador Myanmar	Certain textiles	Quotas for certain textiles (until 31.12.89; new agreement until 31.12.92) Quotas for certain textiles (until 31.12.90)
	Apr 87	Textiles agreement	Panama		Quotas for wool and mmf sweaters (until 31.3.90)
	Apr 87	Increased duties	Japan	Certain electronic goods (lap and desk-top computers, certain colour TV-receivers and certain hand power tools).	The increased tariff duties of 100 per cent (affecting some $300 million of imports) were partially removed in June and November 1987 as Japanese firms ceased alleged dumping in third country markets.
	Jul 87	Extension of import relief (quotas and increased tariffs)	World	Specialty steel	Import relief granted under section 201 of the Trade Act of 1974 through quotas and additional duties. The relief expired on 30 September 1989.
	Jul 87	VER (unilateral action by exporter)	Republic of Korea	Video-cassette recorders, microwave ovens, TV sets	Combination of floor price and volume restrictions (autolimitation to prevent unfair practices and excessive competition among exporters).

Selected border non-tariff measures implemented or renewed since the Punta del Este Declaration (September 1986)

Country	Date	Type of non-tariff measure	Affected countries/territories	Products covered	Operation of the measure
United States (cont'd)	Aug 87	Textiles agreement	USSR	Certain textiles	Quotas for certain textiles (agreement until 31 December 1992).
	Oct 87	Orderly Marketing Arrangement	China	Ammonium paratungstate and tungtic oxide	Following affirmative USITC decision on market disruption under Section 406 of the Trade Act of 1974
	Oct 87	VERs	Australia, New Zealand	Bovine meat	VERs negotiated for 1988 with a view of avoiding import quotas under the Meat Import Act of 1979
		VERs (Steel Import Program)	China Trinidad and Tobago	Steel products
	Apr 87, 88,89, and 90	VER (unilateral action by exporter)	Japan	Automobiles	VER at the level of 2.3 million units was extended successively for fiscal years 1987, 1988, 1989 and 1990.
	Jun 88	Import quotas	United Arab Emirates	Certain textile products	Quotas, the last of which is scheduled to expire on 26.11.90, have been imposed unilaterally pending negotiation of a bilateral agreement. A tentative agreement until 31.12.91 was concluded in Feb 89 but it was not signed as of May 1990.
	Oct 88	Increased duties	Brazil	Certain non-benzenoid drugs, paper products and consumer electronics	The measure (100 percent ad valorem duties) was imposed in retaliation for the alleged Brazil's failure to provide patent protection for U.S. pharmaceuticals and related products. The retaliatory duties were lifted in June 1990.
	Jan 89	Quotas	Thailand	Certain textile products	Certain textile categories are subject to unilateral import restraint after the bilateral textile agreements expired at the end of 1988.
	Jan 89	Increased duties	EEC	Beef without bone, porc hams and shoulders, tomatoes, coffee extracts essences or concentrates, alcoholic beverages, fruit juices and pet food	Tariffs of 100 per cent ad-valorem imposed on $100 million worth of imports from the EEC in retaliation for the ban of imports of hormone-treated meat. Retaliatory duties on pork hams and shoulders and tomato sauce were removed in 1989.
	Sep 89	Global quota	39 countries	Sugar	Extension, through September 1990, of the system of allocation of quotas established in 1982. The quota system was superseded by tariff quotas, as from 1 October 1990, to comply with a GATT panel finding that the import quotas violated GATT rules.
	Sep 89	Extension of VERs	19 countries and the EEC	Steel products	A "Steel Trade Liberalization Programme" extended VERs for two and one-half years until 31 March 1992, with imports allowed to increase by one percentage point per year. The VERs will be phased-out after this period during which an international consensus for "fair and open" steel trade is to be negotiated.

Table I.7a

Latin American and Caribbean countries: tariff reductions and/or simplification of tariff structures

Country	Tariff rates
Argentina	Tariff rates in the range of 5 to 40 per cent
Bolivia	In April 1990, tariff rates for all items except capital goods were reduced from 15 to 10 per cent In January 1990, tariff rates for capital goods were reduced from 10 to 5 per cent.
Brazil	The average tariff rate will be reduced from 37 per cent in 1990 to 20 per cent by 1994.
Colombia	The average tariff rate was reduced from 26 per cent in 1989 to 22 per cent in 1990.
Costa Rica	Tariffs range from 1 to 40 per cent, except for some items which are subject to higher rates.
Chile	Uniform tariff rate of 15 per cent.
Honduras	Tariff ranges are as follows: from 2 to 40 per cent, until 31 December 1990 from 4 to 35 per cent, until 31 December 1991 from 5 to 20 per cent, after 1 January 1992.
Jamaica	Tariffs in the range of 5 to 30 per cent as from 1991.
Mexico	Tariffs range from zero to 20 per cent.
Nicaragua	In September 1990, tariffs were reduced as follows: from up to 5 per cent to zero, from 10-40 per cent to 5 per cent, from 40-60 per cent to 10 per cent. All other rates were reduced to a maximum of 20 per cent
Peru	In September, 1990, tariffs were reduced substantially and the tariff structure was simplified. Tariff rates now are of 15, 25 and 50 per cent, the rate for most items being 25 per cent.
Venezuela	Most tariffs of above 10 per cent were reduced substantially in May 1990. The maximum tariff rate was reduced from 80 to 50 per cent.

Table I.7b

Latin American and Caribbean countries which have bound their entire tariff schedules

Country	Maximum rates
Bolivia	40 per cent some capital goods are bound at 30 per cent
Chile	35 per cent
Costa Rica	60 per cent (55 per cent on the third year after accession to GATT, i.e. in 1993)
Mexico	50 per cent
Venezuela	50 per cent at the time of accession to GATT (1990) 40 per cent two years after accession.

Table I.8

Latin American and Caribbean countries which have eliminated all or most quantitative restrictions and/or measures having similar effects or which do not apply such measures

Argentina	Elimination of import licensing, except for 25 items (certain paper and motor vehicles and parts)
Bolivia	Elimination of all import restrictions, except those maintained for public health and safety reasons.
Brazil	The suspension of issuance of import licences (affecting 1200 items) was discontinued and company import quotas were eliminated in June 1990.
Colombia	Elimination of import prohibitions. Gradual elimination of discretionary licensing. The percentage of items under automatic licence increased from 30 per cent in 1989 to 96.7 per cent in 1990. A surtax of 18 per cent was reduced to 13 per cent in November 1990.
Costa Rica	Elimination of additional import taxes and surcharges exceeding the bound tariff rates.
	Gradual elimination, or application in accordance with the GATT, of import licences four years after accession.
Chile	Quantitative restrictions are prohibited by law (Ley Organica Constitucional 18840)
Mexico	Gradual elimination of import licenses starting in mid-1985. Import licences are required in 1990 for some 330 items or 3 per cent of the total number of tariff items.
	Decrees signed in December 1989 allowed for the importation of automobiles, although imports in 1991 and 1992 will be restrained to 15 percent of the domestic markets. Also in 1989, local content requirements were lowered.
Peru	Import prohibitions imposed for balance-of-payments reasons and other NTMs such as licensing were lifted in August and September 1990.
Uruguay	There are no non-tariff measures restraining imports.
Venezuela	Elimination of quantitative restrictions (5 per cent of the tariff items are still prohibited and 5 per cent are still subject to licensing).

a Ratios have been computed using in general 1988 trade weights (in the case of Brazil and Singapore statistics for 1989 were used).

b The "broad" group of NTMs include certain para-tariff measures, import deposits and surcharges, anti-dumping and countervailing actions, quantitative restrictions (including prohibitions, quotas, non-automatic licensing, and state monopolies), import surveillance, automatic licensing and price control measures. The "narrow" group of NTMs excludes from the "broad" group defined above, para-tariff measures, import deposits, antidumping and countervailing actions, automatic licensing and import surveillance measures.

c Brazil, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Mexico, Republic of Korea, Thailand and Singapore.

Non-tariff measures applied in developed market-economy countries and included in the quantitative assessment of trade intervention.

Below is a summary of the NTMs considered for the calculation of the trade intervention indicators presented in Tables I.10 through I.12. NTMs marked with (*) are included only in the "broad" definition of NTMs.

AUSTRALIA

Licensing	Licences required for certain four-wheel drive vehicles, in accordance with actions under GATT article XIX (action terminated in 1990).
Import Authorizations	Regulation 4B of the Customs (Prohibited Imports) Regulations prohibits the importation of certain fish caught by foreign-based fishing vessels, unless authorization has been received from the Ministry for Primary Industry. The Sugar Agreement Act used to prohibit the importation of sugar and sugar products unless authorization had been received from the Ministry for Primary Industry. The measure was terminated and protection was provided by tariffs, effective 1 July 1989. Imports of rye, barley, oats and triticale require an authorization from the Ministry for Primary Industry (GATT Trade Policy Review: Australia, 1989).
Local content	A 85 percent local content requirement for certain passenger motor vehicles was effectively removed as from 1 January 1989.
Tariff quotas (*)	The tariff quota system which is being progressively removed, normally sets high duty rates and then grants lower rates subject to quotas. Tariff quotas for textiles, clothing and footwear will be removed by 1 July 1995. Those for cheese and curd, introduced in July 1987, will be removed by 1 July 1992. Tariff quotas for passenger motor vehicles were abolished in March 1988. Source: Customs Tariff (Schedule V).

AUSTRIA

Variable levies	Import equalization levies charged on importation of certain agricultural products. Source: Working Customs Tariff (Gebrauchszolltariff), Column "Sonderabgaben" (SO).
Licensing	Licensing requirements for most products included in Annex B II to the Foreign Trade Law of 1984. A license must be issued by the Federal Minister of Agriculture and Forestry. Product coverage: Tariff Schedule, column AHG (Foreign Trade Law), symbol 2. Certain products are subject to automatic licensing (see below). Certain steel products originating in South Africa require an import licence as a sanction against apartheid.
Automatic licensing (*)	Licensing requirements for products included in Annex B I to the Foreign Trade Law of 1984. A license must be issued by the Federal Minister of Trade. Product coverage: Tariff Schedule, column AHG (Foreign Trade Law), symbol 1.
Quotas	Some bilateral quota regulations remain in effect for Japan and Taiwan, Province of China, under paragraph 13 of the Foreign Trade Law of 1984 ("Japan and Taiwan Quotas"). Product coverage: Tariff Schedule, column AHG. A quota for broken rice (HS 1006400001) was introduced in March, 1987, under GATT article XIX. A quota for certain prepared fowls was introduced in March 1990 under GATT Art. XIX, until 31 December 1990.
VER	Reciprocal arrangements on trade in certain kinds of cheese with EEC. Product coverage: Tariff Schedule, column AHG symbol A3.
Textile restraints	Non automatic licensing or quotas for certain textile products originating in China, Egypt, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Republic of Korea, Pakistan, Philippines, Macao, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and Yugoslavia. Product coverage: Tariff Schedule, column AHG.
State Monopoly	Salt (Salt Monopoly Law of 1978), tobacco (Tobacco Monopoly Law of 1968) and spirits (Spirit Monopoly Law of 1922).

Additional charges	Special charges raised, in addition to the customs tariff, on certain products containing alcohol and on certain mineral oils. Product coverage: Gebrauchszolltarif, Column "Sonderabgaben" (SO).

CANADA

Automatic licensing (*)	On certain iron and steel products, for monitoring purposes.
Import permits	For items included in the Import Control List, to support action taken under several trade laws.
Quotas	Global quotas for certain meats and meat products. Canada has justified these quotas under GATT article XI:2(c)(i). Certain dairy products are subject to import control (global quotas) under the Agricultural Stabilization Act and the Dairy Commission Act. Quotas are in force for poultry, eggs, milk and casein. Canada has justified these quotas under GATT article XI:2(c)(i). In January 1988 and May 1989 new products (ice creams, yoghurt and dairy blends, broiler hatching eggs and chicks) were added to the Import Control List, with a view to enforce supply management programmes for these products. Quantitative restrictions on imports of certain types of women's and girls' footwear, until November 1988.
Prohibitions	Prohibited items are included in Schedule "C" to the Customs Act. Canada has justified a number of these prohibitions under Article XX of GATT.
Textile restraints	MFA restraint agreements with Bangladesh, Brazil, China, Hungary, Indonesia, Macao, Malaysia, Pakistan, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Turkey, Uruguay. Other textile agreements with Bulgaria, Maldives, Mauritius, Democratic People's Republic of Korea and Viet Nam.

EEC

Variable levies	Variable levies applied under the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP). Source: TARIC
Variable components	Variable components under the regulations relating to trade in certain goods processed from agricultural products.
VERs	Arrangements with China, Thailand and Indonesia on trade in manioc, following negotiations under GATT Article XXVIII (see Council Regulation (EEC) 430/87). An arrangement with Brazil remained in force until 31 December 1989. Restraint agreement with China concerning certain sweet potatoes (see Council Regulation (EEC) 1471/88). "Voluntary" export restraint arrangements in the framework of the Common Market Organization for sheep and goat meat, with Argentina, Austria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Iceland, New Zealand, Poland, Romania, Chile, Australia and the GDR (The arrangement with Uruguay expired in March, 1988). In return for restraining exports the main suppliers are granted preferences under a tariff quota system. Reciprocal arrangements on trade in certain kinds of cheese with certain EFTA countries. Annual bilateral arrangements on trade in steel products with the major suppliers of the Community (see: Commission Recommendation 3979/89/ECSC). Arrangements are currently in effect with Austria, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Poland and Brazil (arrangements with the Republic of Korea and Venezuela were terminated as of 1 January 1990). Community surveillance on imports of certain articles originating in Japan, under Regulation (EEC) 288/82. Community prior import surveillance, effective 1 July 1990, of imports of certain footwear from the Republic of Korea and Taiwan, Province of China, superseding national restrictions (quotas) formerly applied by France and Italy (OJ L 161/1990). "Voluntary" export retraints concerning textiles with Egypt, Malta and Turkey. Textile trade is subject to a a surveillance mechanism, under bilateral agreements. In return for restraining the volume of shipments to the EEC, the exporting countries receive preferential tariff treatment (OJ L 369/1988).
Import prices	Reference import prices for certain agricultural products (e.g. fruits and vegetables, wine, seeds and fish). Non observance can trigger the imposition of countervailing charges.

Textile restraints MFA Restraint agreements with Brazil, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Macao, Malaysia, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Singapore, Republic of Korea, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Hungary, Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia, China. As of 1 January 1988, an MFA restraint agreement is also in force with Argentina.

Community surveillance (*) A number of products are subject to import surveillance at the Community level under Council Regulation (EEC) 288/82 Annex II. The principal products subject to surveillance are: cut flowers, footwear, certain iron and steel products, semi-conductors and urea.

- Following the arrangement between the United States and Japan on trade in semiconductors, the EEC introduced temporary Community surveillance prior to importation of personal computers and electric hand tools originating in Japan, effective May 1987 (OJ L 117 of 5 May 1987 and OJ L 125 of 19 May 1988).

- Certain iron and steel products (ECSC products) are subject to volume surveillance. Source: Annex IIIA of Commission Recommendation No. 1160/87/ECSC (OJ L 112/87).

Automatic licensing (*) MFA Consultation agreements with Bangladesh and Uruguay

MFA Administrative co-operation agreements, which provide for administrative co-operation with a view to avoiding disruptions in bilateral textile trade, are in force, since 1 January 1988, with Colombia, Egypt, Guatemala, Haiti and Mexico.

EEC/MEMBER STATES

QRs/(EEC) 288/82 EC member States maintain quantitative restrictions which may be implemented either through quotas or through non-automatic licensing. The product coverage of these "residual" national measures is specified in Annex I to Council Regulation (EEC) 288/82. These restrictions are de jure and not necessarily de facto. The restrictions are being liberalized as follows:

- A number of QRs affecting tropical products were abolished in September 1989 (2511) OJ L 230/89

- QRs mentioned in Annex I to Council Regulation (EEC) 3365/89 of 6 November 1989 (OJ L 325) were abolished in certain member States.

- As from 1 October 1990, restrictions facing Yugoslavia were suspended until 31 December 1991, except for certain products imported into Spain or Portugal. See: Council Regulation (EEC) 2727/90 of 25 September 1990 (OJ L 262).

QRs /(EEC) 3420/83 Quantitative restrictions on imports originating in "State trading countries" under Council Regulation (EEC) 3420/83. Most QRs were liberalized in 1990 (the products in question may still be subject to QRs under Regulation EEC 288/82) as follows:

- QRs mentioned in Annex II to Council Regulation (EEC) 3365/89 of 6 November 1989 (OJ L 325) were abolished in certain member States.

- Council Regulation (EEC) 3691/89 of (OJ L 362) suspended all specific QRs facing Hungary and Poland in all member States, except Spain and Portugal, effective 1 January 1990

- A number of QRs were abolished pursuant to the Agreement between the EEC and the European Atomic Energy Commission and the USSR (Council Regulation 1434/90 of 14 May 1990 published in OJ L 138). QRs listed in Annex I were abolished in certain member States. QRs listed in Annex II were suspended and replaced by automatic licensing arrangements. QRs listed in Annex III were abolished at Community level.

- All quantitative restrictions for the German Democratic Republic were suspended from 1 July 1990 by Council Regulation (EEC) 1794/90 and Commission Regulation (EEC) 1795/90, published in OJ L 166 of 29 June 1990.

All quantitative restrictions with regard to Hungary, Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania were suspended until 31 December 1991 pursuant to Council Regulation (EEC) 2727/90 of 25 September 1990 (OJ L 262), as from 1 October 1990 (in the case of Romania in would apply from the date of entry into force of the Co-operation Agreement). Regulations (EEC) 3381/89 and (EEC) 3691/89 were repealed.

Quotas Quota restrictions on footwear imported into Italy or France from Taiwan, Province of China, effective 1 March 1988 (OJ L 54 of 1 March, 1988). Superseded by Community-wide VERs, effective 1 July 1990 (OJ L 161 of 27 June 1990).

VERs Principal VERs applied at member State level concern Japanese exports of cars to France, Portugal, Spain and the United Kingdom.

FINLAND

Variable levies	Imports of certain live animals, meat, milk and cream, dried vegetables, cereals and sugars are subject to variable levies. Source: Customs Tariff
Licensing	Imports of most agricultural products are subject to non-automatic licensing requirements. Source: Import system, Customs Tariff.
Quotas	Imports of products included in lists A.1 and A.2 in the Annex to the Foreign Trade Decree are subject to either global quotas or licencing. Global quotas are in force for certain agricultural products, certain petroleum and petroleum products, silver and gold. The value of quotas are fixed annually.
VER	Certain cheeses from the EEC.
Textile restraints	MFA bilateral agreements with China, Hong Kong, India, Republic of Korea, Macao, Malaysia, Pakistan, Romania, Thailand and Sri Lanka.
Import monopolies	State trading monopoly on cereals and alcohol.
Automatic licensing (*)	Licensing for certain textile and steel products for surveillnave purposes (the EEC, EFTA countries and the USSR are excluded from surveillance licensing).
Anti-dumping actions (*)	Source: Reports to the GATT Committee on Anti-dumping practices.

JAPAN

Quotas (HQ-items)	Import quotas ("non-liberalized" items). Most quotas have been justified under GATT articles XX (General Exceptions) or XXI (Security Exeptions). One quota (common salt) has been justified under Article XVII (State Trading Enterprises). No GATT justification has been given for other quotas. Source: Customs Tariff Schedules, 1989 and 1990. - In June 1988, Japan agreed to eliminate import quotas for beef and citrus fruit. The elimination of the beef quota will be effective 1 April, 1991. Import quotas for prepared and preserved meat were lifted on 1 April 1989. Import quotas for fresh oranges and orange juice will be eliminated on 1 April 1991 and 1 April 1992, respectively. - In conformity with the ruling of a GATT panel that import quotas for certain agricultural products are inconsistent with the General Agreement, Japan has announced a set of marketing opening measures. Quotas are to be either terminated completely or converted into tariff quotas. (In some cases, tariffs were increased).
Variable levies	Price differential duties, which are comparable with variable levies, are applied to certain live-stock, certain meat products and sugar. In the case of live-stock and meat products, the (maximum) customs duties to be paid are computed on the basis of the "standard import price", which on their turn are based on stabilization prices. Under the Sugar Price Stabilization Law (1965), importers are required to sell imported sugar to a State corporation and to buy it back at a higher price, if the world market price of sugar is below the domestic support price in Japan.
Import authorizations	Import authorizations from the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) are required for a number of product categories (IA items). Import authorization required for certain fish and silk may be assumed to have a potential impact on imports originating in developing countries. Imports of fish, crustaceans and molluscs and preparations require an import authorization when the shipment is made on the open sea. Imports of certain silk yarns and fabrics which can be used as raw silk by unsewing, originating in certain trading partners, require an import authorization to prevent circumvention of a state monopoly for raw silk. Imports of salmon originating in Taiwan, Province of China require an import authorization since June 1984. Imports of steel products originating in South Africa, as a sanction against Apartheid.
VER	Certain woven fabrics of silk from the Republic of Korea.
State monopoly	Imports of certain cereals (e.g. wheat, barley and rice) are subject to state monopoly under the Food Management Law. Certain types of alcohol and salt are subject to State monopoly under the Alcohol Monopoly Law and Salt Monopoly Law, respectively. The Cocoon and Raw Silk Price Stabilization Law provides for a State monopoly of imports of raw silk.
Sole importing agency	Imports of unmanufactured tobacco has been liberalized and no agency or company has the exclusive rights to import the item, although the importation is in effect dependent on the purchases by Japan Tobacco Inc.
Tariff quotas (*)	Tariff quotas for certain live animals, certain cheese, maize, malt, ethyl alcohol, heavy fuel oils and raw oils, certain hides and leather products and footwear (Certain hides and leather products and footwear were removed from the import quota list and converted into tariff quotas in April, 1986)

NEW ZEALAND

Quotas Effective 1 July 1988, the licence requirement was abolished for imports of products not subject to industry plans. Licensing for products subject to industry plans will be abolished gradually until 1992. Termination dates have been introduced in the data base according to programmes for different industry plans, although in some cases licensing has been removed at an earlier date.

Sole importing agencies. These refer to organizations which are responsable for importation and distribution of certain primary products.

Tariff quotas (*) Tariff quotas for wine, removed in July, 1990.

NORWAY

Quotas Some products are covered by the Act of 1934 concerning temporary import ban.

Imports of certain agricultural products are subject to quotas, licensing or seasonal restrictions.

Textile restraints MFA bilateral agreements with China, Czechoslovakia, Hong Kong, Hungary, Pakistan and Poland.

Textile agreements outside the MFA with Malta and the German Democratic Republic.

Import monopolies. The Grain Supply Act of 1929 establishes the state monopoly for imports of grains and food concentrates. Other state monopolies import alcohol, medicine and pharmaceuticals. Fishing equipment is imported by a sole importing agency.

SWEDEN

Variable levies (*) Variable import levies applied to a wide range of processed and semi-processed agricultural products. Source: Customs Tariff, Annex 2.

Automatic licensing (*) Automatic licensing, for surveillance purposes, applies to imports of certain iron and steel products and to imports of certain textile and clothing from all sources except EEC, EFTA and certain other countries.

Licensing The National Agricultural Marketing Board is the licensing authority for agricultural products. Licences are required for imports of inter-alia, certain kinds of meat, fish, seafood, wheat and cane or beet sugar. The National Board of Trade is the licensing authority for industrial products. Imports of a wide range of agricultural and industrial products originating in countries in Eastern Europe are subject to licensing.

Quotas Quotas applied to imports of several products subject to licensing such as reindeer meat from Eastern European countries and many types of fish from all origins.

Quotas for imports of leather footwear from certain Eastern European countries.

Unilateral quantitative restrictions to imports of certain textile and clothing from some countries.

Quota for imports of wheat not fit for baking justified under GATT article XI:2(b).

Textile restrictions MFA bilateral agreements with Brazil, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Republic of Korea, Macao, Malaysia, Pakistan, Philippines, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

Voluntary bilateral export restraint arrangements with China, Czechoslovakia, Poland Romania, Malta, Bulgaria and German Democratic Republic.

Textile quotas for China, Mauritius, Malta and countries in Eastern Europe, administered by the National Board of Trade.

Import monopolies Wine and spirits imported by the Wine and Spirits Corporation.

Anti-dumping actions (*) A few cases involving anti-dumping investigations and duties.

SWITZERLAND

Automatic licensing (*) Protection to the textile sector is afforded only through automatic licensing, applied to all imports except those originating in the EEC and other EFTA countries. under the Ordonnance du DFEP sur les importations de textiles du 2 decembre 1987, RS 946.213.1

Licensing A number of agricultural items require an "import permit" as specified in the "Tarif d'usage des douanes suisses". Switzerland has notified this requirement as automatic licensing or liberal licensing to the GATT. Imports of industrial products are normally free. Licences may be required for certain products, generally sub-items of tariff positions, for the enforcement of policies regarding agricultural policies, for purposes covered by GATT articles XX and XXI or pursuant to other international obligations.

According to the "Take-over" mechanism, importers are obliged to purchase domestic like products in proportion to their imports. This measure affects live sheep and goats and meat derived therefrom, poultry meat, milk powder and casein, eggs and seedling small onions.

Quotas Importation of cereals and forage is subject to a system of quotas, combined with monopolization of import rights granted to the Cereals and Forage Co-operative.

Imports of live animals of the bovine, porcine and equine species, and meat derived therefrom; meat preparations and preserves; milk and wine are subject to quotas.

Seasonal quotas Most fresh fruit and vegetables are subject to the "three phases system". According to the availability of domestic production imports are allowed under automatic licence, subject to "take over" or subject to seasonal restrictions (seasonal quotas and seasonal tariffs).

Import monopoly State monopoly for imports of butter and ethyl alcohol

Price surveillance Imports of MFA products from all sources other than the EEC and other EFTA countries are subject to price surveillance. Imports originating in countries in Eastern Europe must be priced within certain margins compared to similar Swiss products.

Variable levies Variable import levies on butter

Variable components For imports of a number of semi-processed and processed agricultural products.

UNITED STATES

Quotas Quota restrictions under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, for imports of certain dairy products, peanuts, sugar and certain cotton products. Section 22 restrictions on sugar imports operated until October 1990 through quotas and flexible fees.

Specialty steels: import quotas introduced in July 1983 and renewed in July 1987, through September 1989, under an import relief program under section 201 of the Trade Act of 1974 and GATT Article XIX, in combination with additional import duties (see additional import duties). In return for voluntary restraint arrangements certain countries were exempted from additional duties and or quotas

Variable levies Flexible import fees levied on sugar under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1934 (see also quotas).

VERs. Unilateral restraints of car exports by Japan, initiated in 1981 and renewed each year.

The Meat Import Act of 1979 requires the President to impose quotas on imports of certain meats (mainly fresh, chilled or frozen meat) if the US Department of Agriculture estimates that annual imports of such meat will exceed a certain level, based on US production of meat during the current and previous four calendar years. Voluntary restraint arrangements were in force with Australia and New Zealand until October 1988.

Voluntary restraint arrangements on machine tools with Japan and Taiwan, Province of China, effective 1 January 1987 for a period of 5 years, under National Security Import Restrictions (Section 232 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 authorizes the President to regulate the importation of commodities that threaten to impair the US national security).

Under the "Steel trade liberalization program", "Voluntary" Restraint Agreements governing imports of iron and steel products through 31 March 1992 have been concluded with Australia, Austria, Brazil, China, EEC (the arrangement consists of two parts: ECSC and pipes and tubes), Finland, GDR, Hungary, Japan, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, New Zealand, Poland, Romania, Trinidad and Tobago, Venezuela and Yugoslavia. The product categories and HS product coverage has been taken from the Appendix to each arrangement.

Orderly marketing arrangement with China for ammonium paratungstate and tungsten acid, following investigation under section 406 of the Trade Act of 1974. A valid export certificate is required. (HS Tariff Schedule, Chapter 99, Subchapter III).

In July 1987, the Electronics Industries Association of the Republic of Korea in cooperation with the Trade and Industry Ministry announced a unilateral program to restrain shipments (through a combination of floor prices and unit volume restrictions) of microwave ovens, colour and black and white television sets and videocassette recorders.

Textile restraints Textile restraints are divided into five categories. Restraints covered by bilateral agreements with countries which are signatories of the MFA Protocol are subdivided into MFA-quotas (specific limits) and MFA-consultation (consultation provisions, such as designated or minimum consultation levels). Restraints facing non-signatories of the MFA Protocol are subdivided into textile quotas and textile consultations. Unilateral quantitative restrictions, whether or not facing MFA signatories, are encoded as bilateral quotas. The categorization is made on the basis of US Imports of Textiles and Apparel under the MFA, Annual Report 1989 (Table 1). The product coverage is that of mid 1990, as reported in Source: Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration, Office of Textiles and Apparel: Summary of Agreements (through May 31, 1990). MFA agreements with Argentina, Bangladesh, Brazil, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, Egypt, El Salvador, Guatemala, Hong Kong, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Jamaica, Republic of Korea, Macao, Malaysia, Mexico, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Poland, Romania, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Turkey, Uruguay and Yugoslavia. Subdivision into five different categories, situation in mid-1990. Other textile restraint agreements with Bulgaria, Fiji, the former German Democratic Republic, Guam, Haiti, Mauritius Maldives, Myanmar, Nepal, Northern Mariana Islands, Panama, USSR, Taiwan Province of China, Trinidad and Tobago and the United Arab Emirates, under Section 204 of the Agricultural Act of 1956.

Bilateral quotas	Products of the EEC, China. (HTS Chapter 99).
Tariff quotas (*)	The product coverage of tariff quotas can be found in the Tariff Schedule of the United States.
Additional import duties	Additional import duties imposed by, or pursuant to trade legislation as specified in Chapter 99 of the HS Tariff Schedule. Additional duties refer to items falling under Chapters 1 through 98. -ethyl alcohol to be used as a fuel -additional duties (25 % ad valorem) on imports of certain motor vehicles for the transportation of goods under section 252 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962. Import relief, granted under section 201 of the Trade Act of 1974, to industries which suffer injury because of rapidly increasing imports, although neither subsidized nor dumped. -safeguard measures in force for shingles and shakes -additional import duties on specialty steels expired on 30 September 1989 Retaliatory tariffs may be imposed under section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974. -additional tariffs imposed on articles the product of the EEC -additional tariffs imposed on articles the product of Japan, effective April 1987 (the United States alleged that Japan was not fulfilling its commitments under the Japan-United States semiconductor agreement of September 1986). -additional tariffs imposed on articles the product of Brazil
AD and CVD actions (*)	Source: United States International Trade Commission and United States Import Administration, Department of Commerce.
Import monitoring	Sheep and goatmeat (two-year import monitoring programme on sheep and goatmeat, initiated in October 1988). Meat import Act (see VERs above). Unilateral monitoring of imports of machine tools originating in the Federal Republic of Germany and Switzerland, initiated in January 1987. The monitoring is reported to be linked with a reference level of imports.

Non-tariff measures applied in seven selected developing countries and included in the quantitative assessment of trade intervention

Below is a summary of the NTMs considered for the calculation of the trade intervention indicators presented in Tables I.13 and I.14. NTMs marked with (*) are included only in the "broad" definition of NTMs.

BRAZIL

Tariff quotas (*)	Imports of apples and certain pears
Antidumping actions (*)	Antidumping duties on imports of chains for bicycles originating in India Czechoslovakia, China and the USSR.
Suspension of licences	Between 1976 and 1990, the issuance of import licences for a range of products was suspended (See "Annex C" of CACEX Communication 204, regarding temporarily suspended imports. For changes in the product coverage during the period 1988-1990, see Communications 204, 208 and 235). As the articles in question could not be imported without a licence, the measure was in fact an import prohibition. This measure was terminated in 1990 (Portaria 56 of the Economy, Finance and Planning Ministry, issued on 15 March 1990)
Import authorizations	The importation of a number of articles is subject to special control. Until May, 1988, the importation of steel and nonferrous metals required prior authorization of CONSIDER (Council for nonferrous and ferrous metals). Importation of computer hard- and software requires special authorization from the Secretariat of Science and Technology. The number of products subject to special import authorization was reduced to 47, effective 1 January 1991.
State monopolies	The only monopoly still in force is that for imports of petroleum. A State monopoly for imports of wheat was eliminated in 1990. A State monopoly for imports of alcohol and sugar was eliminated in 1990 (Import licences are being issued subject to a declaration on shortage of domestic supply).
Non-aotomatic licensing	Effective September 1990, local producers assemblers of tractors, vehicles and motorcycles may import the same products, according to their export performance (up to a limit of 10 percent of the value of exports). Source: Portaria 06/90 of the Department of External Trade (DECEX).
Prohibitions	Imports of luxury yachts and certain pesticides (Agent orange).

REPUBLIC OF KOREA

Import authorizations	Licences for import of restricted items are granted on the recommendation of designated government agencies or industrial associations. The number of restricted items has declined from 547 in 1988 to 373 in 1990.
Quota	Temporary quotas for beef imports, replacing a previous import ban, since 1988.

HONG KONG

Quotas	Import quotas for rice, established on the basis of, inter alia, domestic consumption.
Licenses	Licensing for rice, frozen meat and frozen poultry. The general purpose is to provide information on stocks of staple foods. The objetive is to ensure regular and adecuate supply and to provide a reserve stock for emergency purposes.
Embargo	Imports of iron and steel from South Africa are normally prohibited.
Automatic licensing (*)	Under the Textile Export Control System, all textile imports require a license, for surveillance purposes. Imports of radio transmitting equipment require a licence for the same purpose.

MALAYSIA

Surcharges	A surcharge of 5 % is levied on most imported goods. The goods are listed in columns 1 and 2 of the Tariff Schedule.
Licensing	Some 340 items require an import licence to be granted by the Ministry of Trade and Industry.
Import authorizations	Some 1300 items require an import licence to be issued by other Ministries or agencies (e.g.: Telecoms Department, Malaysian Timber Industry Body, Federal Agricultural Marketing Authority Malaysia). Source: Customs (Prohibition of Import) Order of 1988.

Prohibitions	Imports of multi-color photocopying machines, certain radio receivers and sodium arsenite are prohibited. Source: Customs (prohibition of import) order 1988.

Non-automatic licensing	About 340 items require a prior import permit. Some 30 % of the restricted items are agricultural and food products.
Quotas	Imports of milk in powder, evaporated milk, certain oil seeds, pulp of wood, waste and scrap of paper and newsprint are subject to quotas.
AD actions	Since 1987 Mexico has applied antidumping duties.
State monopoly	Cereals, sugar, cacao, tobacco and fuels are subject to State monopoly.
THAILAND
Licence	Certain products require import licensing according to the Export and Import Act (a licence must be obtained from the Ministry of Commerce).
Import authorization	Licensing to be issued by a special agency, e.g. a product-related Ministry, such as the Department of Commercial Registration (petroleum and petroleum products).
Seasonal restriction	imports of garlic are subject to seasonal restrictions.
Purchase local goods	Tea powder and leaves. The permission to import is given only when the importer purchases local products from the Public Warehouse Organization in the specified proportion.
Sole importing agency	Public warehouse Ortganization is the only importer of potatoes for seeding purposes and coffee.
SINGAPORE
Licences	Specific licences are required for rice.

1 Rate of Duty Column 2 Bulgaria, Romania and USSR. The United States and Bulgaria concluded a bilateral trade agreement including reciprocal MFN status in the Autumn of 1990, but the agreement was not yet approved by both countries at the time of preparing this document.

2 A bilateral trade agreement including reciprocal MFN status was concluded in April 1990. A resolution approving MFN status was adopted by the House on October 17, 1990.

3 In October 1989 the President reported to the Congress that Hungary was in full compliance with the freedom-of-emigration requirement of section 402. The determination released Hungary from the waiver procedure that had made its status subject to annual review (USITC: Trade Between the United States and the Nonmarket Economy Countries During January-March 1990, page 2. (USITC publication 2302)).

4 MFN treatment was suspended in October 1982, but restored in February 1987.
